Concussion Information

A concussion is a brain injury and all brain injuries are serious. They are caused by a bump, blow, or jolt to the head, or by a blow to another part of the body with the force transmitted to the head. They can range from mild to severe and can disrupt the way the brain normally works. Even though most concussions are mild, all concussions are potentially serious and may result in complications including prolonged brain damage and death if not recognized and managed properly. If your child reports any symptoms of concussion, or if you notice the symptoms or signs of concussion yourself, seek medical attention right away.

| Symptoms may include one or more of the following: | Signs observed by teammates, parents and coaches: |
|--|---|
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Headaches or feeling of pressure in head • Nausea or vomiting • Neck pain • Balance problems or dizziness • Blurred, double or fuzzy vision • Sensitivity to light or noise • Feeling sluggish or drowsy • Change in sleep patterns • Amnesia • Sadness, anxiety or confusion • Concentration or memory problems | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Appears dazed • Vacant facial expression • Confused about assignment • Forgets plays or events • Unsure of game, score, or opponent • Moves clumsily or displays incoordination • Answers questions slowly • Slurred speech • Behavior or personality changes • Seizures or convulsions • Loses consciousness |

You should also inform your child's coach if you think that your child may have a concussion. Remember, it's better to miss one game than miss the whole season. And when in doubt, the athlete sits out.
